

Nifty50

Closing price	R1	R2	S1	S2
24,330.95	24,500	25,000	24,000	23,800

- The Nifty 50 is attempting a recovery and is now testing the crucial resistance zone near 24,300–24,500, which aligns with the 50 EMA and a prior breakdown level. Price action indicates a gradual build-up with higher lows, suggesting improving sentiment, but the index still trades below major moving averages, keeping the broader trend cautious. RSI is trending upwards near the 55–60 zone, reflecting strengthening momentum. A decisive breakout above 24,500 could trigger further upside towards 25,000–25,200. However, failure to sustain above this level may lead to consolidation or a pullback towards immediate support at 23,800, maintaining a cautious to range-bound outlook.

Bank Nifty

Closing price	R1	R2	S1	S2
55,981.05	56,500	57,000	55,500	55,000

- Bank Nifty is showing a gradual recovery after a sharp corrective phase, with prices reclaiming short-term moving averages but still trading below key higher EMAs, indicating a cautious undertone. The recent bounce from the 50,000–52,000 demand zone highlights strong buying interest at lower levels; however, the index is now approaching a crucial resistance near 56,500–57,000, where supply has previously emerged. RSI has moved above 50, suggesting improving momentum, but not yet strong enough to confirm a sustained uptrend. Structurally, the index remains in a broader corrective phase unless it decisively breaks above the overhead resistance. A range-bound to mildly positive bias is likely in the near term.
