

Nifty50

Closing price	R1	R2	S1	S2
23618.00	24,000	24,300	23,300	23,200

- Nifty continues to trade with a weak undertone as the index remains below key moving averages, indicating that the broader trend is still under pressure. The recent consolidation between 23,200–24,300 suggests a lack of strong directional momentum, with repeated rejection near the resistance zone highlighting persistent selling at higher levels. RSI is hovering below the 50 mark, reflecting subdued momentum and limited buying strength. The support zone near 23,300–23,200 remains crucial for the near-term structure, as a breakdown below this range could trigger fresh downside pressure towards lower levels. On the upside, only a sustained move above 24,300–24,500 may improve sentiment and signal the possibility of a stronger recovery phase.

Bank Nifty

Closing price	R1	R2	S1	S2
53409.15	54,000	54,300	53,000	52,500

- Bank Nifty remains under pressure as the index continues to trade below key higher EMAs, reflecting weakness in the broader trend. The recent price action indicates consolidation near the crucial 53,000–54,000 support zone, where buyers are attempting to defend lower levels. However, repeated rejection near the short-term moving averages suggests lack of strong bullish momentum. RSI is hovering around the 40 mark, indicating subdued strength and a cautious undertone in the near term. Structurally, the index remains vulnerable unless it reclaims the 54,000–54,500 resistance band decisively. A breakdown below the highlighted support zone could trigger further downside towards 53,000–52,500 levels, while sustained stability above support may lead to a short-term relief bounce.
